

Join the Crime Writers' Association

The CWA is the UK's association for published crime writers - fiction and non-fiction. Established in 1953 by John Creasey, the CWA awards the annual Daggers for the best in crime writing... and there's much more to the CWA than that.

Benefits of CWA Membership

- Real-life networking and social opportunities, via regional chapters, annual conference and events
- Platforms for your publicity, including ezines from our sister organisation the CRA sent regularly to around 12,000 subscribers
- Websites and Facebook groups where your events and news can be posted
- Discounts to events such as CrimeFest and Bloody Scotland
- Active support for libraries and booksellers
- Author promotion through events such as National Crime Reading Month
- Access to Information, entertainment and the inside track on all things crime writing through the monthly membership magazine, Red Herrings
- Chance to contribute to the next CWA anthology of short stories
- Free tax helpline via specialist accountants H W Fisher
- Discounted first-year membership of associations including Society of Authors and HWA
- Low annual subscription; no joining fee

www.thecwa.co.uk

membership@thecwa.co.uk or secretary@thecwa.co.uk
Facebook: www.facebook.com/CrimeWritersAssociation
Twitter: @the_cwa

Look out for the CWA's latest anthology,
MUSIC OF THE NIGHT, published February 2022.

NEWSFLASH: Self-published crime writers are now welcome to apply for membership of the CWA.
Visit www.thecwa.co.uk for details.

